Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

Referring to the Russian-Japanese war, which he avers opened in 1936 with the declaration of Berlin-Rome-Tokyo axis, Demaree Bess in the current Saturday Evening Post, recounts among the "concealed" features the actual training of 600,000 Chinese Red legions to battle the Japanese not only on the present fronts but behind the lines. These Chinese Red guerrillas prevent the invaders from establishing any hold on the country outside the limits of highways, railroads and the larger cities. The rest of the country behind, the so-called front is still very much in the hands of the Chinese.

It is a coincidence, of course, that Bess' article appeared just at the moment the Russian-Japanese war emerges into the open along the Manchurian border. The border has from time immemorial been nebulous, ill-defined. Sometimes we suspect, it has purposely been left so, in order that at opportune moments Japan or Russia might move in and establish a boundary by proving actual possession.

It is perhaps too early to say that the present Russian-Japanese skirmish will develop into a major war. In this country, which views with horror, the atrocities incident to the Japanese invasion of China, the suffering inflicted upon a defenceless people already impoverished to the point of starvation, popular sentiment would acclaim any action that Russia takes to punish the Japanese for their monstrous campaign against a neighbor. The fact that it is a Communist army that takes on the task of humbling the fascist military clique of Japan, by and large, is just so much corn for the mills of democracy. The long view would be that if communists and fascists choose to exterminate each other there will be more room on earth for democracies. In any event a militant and aggressive Red Russia army moving into Manchurria on one flank, and a Red Chinese army in the south moving north against another Japanese flank, will put an end to the menace to all western interests, so far as Japan is concerned. Whether Communist control will do any more toward preserving the "open door" than would fascist control, is another question.

We suspect, however, after a communist victory, in rehabilitation following a vast Asiatic war, and fundamentally the Russians are Asiatics, would offer greater opportunities to the democracies in the way of trade and investment than if Japan and her allies were the winners. Essentially communism, in its original meaning is a form of government inherently of the people. That is has been hideously distorted under the Stalin rule to such an extent that it leaves nothing to choose between it and fascism, is not the fault of the theory, but of the practice. With the theory of communism democracies must feel more sympathy than with any form of government that degenerates into an autocracy or dictatorship. In so far as war is concerned, however ,dictatorship is, of course far more effective than any other form of government.

Seizure of property by forse, necessitates more and more force to defend it against enemy forces. We all remember the hi-jackers trade during the recent prohibition era. Illegal liquor belonged to whomever was strong enough to capture and retain it. Highgraders gold, as has often been proved, belongs only to the highgrader so long as he can successfully hold it. Outlaw goods belong to the possessor only by the savage law of defendable possession. Thus with Ethiopia. Any nation with the desire and the sufficient army will have just the same right in evicting the Italians that the Italians had in subduing the black owners. Japan's seizue of Manchuria, therefore, does not give title, save as Japan is able to defend the seizure against all comers. From many standpoints, even that of ethnology, Russia has a greater right to Manchuria than Japan. It is contiguous; and adjoining populations are more racially akin than were the Japanese and the Manchurians; and the Russians had done far more to develop the country with railroads and trade facilities than have the Japanese.

Whatever the present border skirmishes between Japan and Russia lead to, Demaree Bess in his Saturday Evening Post contribution, calls attention to the fact that Russia for two years has been waging a successful war upon Japan. Whether it will continue more or less "concealed," as the author describes it, or whether it will burst from smoky smoldering into angry flames lighting up the entire area of the China and Yellow seas and the western shores of the Pacific, is still in laps of the grinning Oriental gods.

Voters To Decide High School Bond Issue At Polls Tomorrow

The voters of Nevada City high school district, which comprises the city and some contiguous territory, will tomorrow vote on whether or not to issue $20,000 in bonds for the purpose of completing the high school with auditorium facilities, a manual training department, and equipment for both.

The purpose of the bond issue is to carry out the original plans of Nevada City School Board by converting the recently constructed gymnasium into an auditorium, with a large stage and stage equipment, portable seats (so that its use as a gymnasium will not be impaired) and providing public lavatories and toilets. Beneath the stage structure will be constructed shop space and mechanical shop equipment. The ground for this has already been excavated and a place provided, which will be flooded with sun, on the southern side of the gymnasium, or auditorium.

The high school already provides splendid facilities for the girls domestic sciences and cooking. The present plan will afford similar facilities for mechanics for boys. It will complete certain portions of the existing physical plant still requiring attention.

The funds available at the time recent addition to the high school was built were insufficient to carry through the entire project.

Based on existing assessed valuation, the additional tax rrate necessary to amortize and service these bonds is estimated to be from 10c to 15c per hundred of assessed valuation ($1 to $1.50 per $1000), depending upon coupon rate of bonds. This is such a nominal amount, that the Nevada City School Board has felt no hestitancy in recommending the proposal to the voters. If carried the citizens of the district will be afforded splendid facilities for the education of young people who wish to specialize in mechanical work—engineering, automobile mechanics, electrical work, etc. Also, the community will be afforded one of the finest auditoriums, with theatrical and stage equipment, in this portion of the state. Meetings and theatrical entertainments now held in hired quarters can be arranged to splendid advantage in the handsome and commodious building proved under this plan of addition.

It will be noted that local communities such as Nevada City and Grass Valley have never enjoyed an opportunity for obtaining funds at so low a rate of interest as at present. Also, the proposed addition to funded debt, with the small tax involved, leaves a conservative margin of approximately 20 per cent between borrowings and borrowing limit, under state school law.

This proposal is for the undoubted benefit of this community, and bears the endorsement, in addition to the Nevada City Board of Education, of the trustees of the City of Nevada, the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce, the Nevada City Parent Teachers Association, and the Nevada City Womein's Civic Improvement Club. It is hoped that an overwhelming vote in favor of the bonds will be cast at the election, to be held in Nevada City, next Saturday August 6th, at the Nevada City elementary school building.

Here are some pertinent facts concerning the proposed bond issue:

Amount of Issue: $20,000. Maximum—20 bonds of $1000 each to mature $1000 per year from date of issue. Rate of interest not to exceed 5 per cent (coupon probably 3 1-4 per cent to 4 per cent, based upon best information obtainable. Last issue 4 per cent.)

Assessed valuation of district, 1938-39 $1,806,995.

Bonding limit of district—High school purposes (5 per cent) $90,300.

Existing funded debt (high school) $52,500.

Proposed new bond issue. $20.000.

Marginal limit (amount by which limit exceeds existing and proposed bonds) $17,800.

Population of district, (based on estimate of twice registration of voters) 4,200.

It has long been recognized by modern educational authorities that nearly one third of all students find academic studies difficult, but that most of them show decided talent in mechanics, construction, and handicrafts of various kinds. The trend in all high schools in California is to give such students the training for which their abilities are best suited.

The Nugget has long advocated a rudimentary training for local high school boys, who desire it, in practical mining. It would seem that since many of them following graduation make mining their vocation, that high school work could well include elementary instruction that would immediately fit them for work in the mines on completion of their high school course.

The fact that the gymnasium is to be so altered as to give it also the function of an auditorium, will of course, appeal to all residents young and old. There are many events in the high school year to which the public is invited, and also many educational programs in which adults find vital need for a modern meeting place. It is proposed to build the stage and manual education department on the south side of the gymnasium. Future musical events, debates, lectures, and of course the high school social life, will find a pleasant home in the auditorium, provided Nevada City voters approve of this expenditure.

Every citizen of the high school district tomorrow should vote upon the bond issue which has been submitted them. It is an opportunity to bring the Nevada City high school abreast the best schools of the state in all around educational facilities.

ROTARY HEARS PHYSICIAN SPEAK

Dr. David H. Reeder was the speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Nevada City Rotary club yesterday. William Home was program chairman. Dr. Reeder gave an interesting discussion of numerology and indicated that the people of the United States were descended from the "lost tribe" of Israel.

Egyptian and Biblical prophesies, indicated by coincident numbers, according to Dr. Reeder afforded irrefutable proof that the "lost tribe" first settled in England and later moved to the British colonies in New England.

Dr. B. W. Hummelt announced that a petition to the city council to enact a garbage ordinance had been prepared and would be presented. Dr. Hummelt is chairman of committee consisting of Charles Elliott and Bill Tamblyn to draw up and secure signatures for such a petition.

A. MERRIAM CONNER'S POEM IN TRIBUNE

Ad Schuster, editorial writer of the Oakland Tribune, honored Mrs. A. Merriam Conner, well known and appreciated as the author of "Just Wonderin'," with a place at the top of his page last week. This the second time Mr. Schuster has given Mrs. Conner's a place of prominence on his page.

NEW GARBAGE ORDINANCE WILL BE CONSIDERED

The city council last evening heard a petition from B street residents to have their street improved so as to make it passable in the winter time; heard a petition sponsored by the Rotary club for a compulsory garbage ordinance! also a petition to insall a chlorination system for the water system to prevent epidemics. Dr. B. W. Hummelt accompanied by a committte of citizens presented the petitions for the garbage ordinance and the chlorination system. The physician stated that during last winter some 180,000 sports enthusiasts visited the slopes of the water sheds which supply this and other cities with water, and that the danger of water contamination and epidemics was constantly increasing.

Dr. Hummelt also said that there were a number of cases of record in which city governments had been sued, and damages awarded, for failing to take proper measures to insure a pure water supply which resulted in epidemic deaths. He stated that he had received data from a company dealing in sanitary devices giving an estimate of $750 to $900 for two chlorination plants adequate to treat water from both the city's reservoirs.

Ed. C. Uren, city engineer, stated that the project for increasing the capacity of the city's two north reservoirs had been approved by the WPA engineers who looked over the ground here Wednesday. This calls for the removal of 400 yards from the upper reservoir and 5000 yards from the lower. It is expected that the NID dragline will be used.

At the lower reservoir it is proposed to raise the dam four feet which will require 1380 yards of gravel. The cement bulkhead will be raised and 94 feet of new 22 inch pipe installed to replace pipe now in poor condition. This improvement would give Nevada City a full six days supply of water in storage in case of emergency.

At the close of their discussion the city council directed City Attorney Frank Finnegan to draw up a suitable garbage ordinance.

The following bills were ordered paid:

C.I.O. And Lava Cap Superintendent Hold An Epistolary Debate

The Lava Cap mine is now without a bargaining group among its employes. J. W. Chandler, general superintendent of the mine has posted a letter to the CIO affiliate on the mine's bulletin board as follows:

"We have received a reply to our letter of July 11 to the Regional Director of the National Labor Relations Board.

"It was a great surprise to us to learn that your representative will not consent to have a vote taken to determine just what bargaining group the majority of our employes desire. Under the circumstances we must be frank to state that we are not at all sure that your union represents the majority of our employes.

"We have always enjoyed amicable relations with our employes and it must be obvious to you that for these relations to continue, a majority representation of our men is imperative. To form labor contracts or agreements with a minority group acting for the majority will lead only to controversy and ill feeling between our employes. This we all know, from experience, is hazardous, and this management is desirous of taking every possible step to prevent such a situation from occuring.

"Since our contract with Local 283 expires August 1, we must at this time notify your union that under instructions received from the NLRB, we are not free to enter into collective bargaining your union as representing the majority of our employes.

"When the time comes that you can assure us definitely that your union does represent the majority of our employes, we shall be willing and happy to enter into negotiations with you."

(Signed) J. W. CHANDLER.

This notice follows logically the letter sent by Mrs. Alice M. Rosseter, regional Labor Board director in San Francisco to Secretary Harris of the Local CIO affiliate, in which the lady stated that since the local CIO affiliate would not consent to holding an election at the Lava Cap, she would not call for a vote. It would seem that CIO affiliate, fearing to lose the position of bargainer in the only gold mine in California which acknowledges the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board, has placed itself in an indefensible position both legally and morally in attempting to obstruct a vote. However, the secretary of the local CIO affiliate does not take this view of the matter. On the contrary as has been the past practice of this organization he claims a majority, though he refuses to put the matter to a test vote.

Here is his letter to J. W. Chandler, general superintendent of the mine:

"On receipt of yours of the 31st, I wish to state there seems to be a lot of misunderstanding of us and about our relation with the Labor Board. If the League were a bonafide labor organization we would not hesitate one minute to give our consent to holding another election. However, I wish to point out that it is not fear of losing the election that makes us refuse at this time. When a person or organization wins an election or point they do not, as a rule, advocate another vote taken and that is the position we find ourselves in.

"You state in your letter that you are not sure that we represent the employees at the mine. In the first place, that has no bearing on the case. In the second place, I want to assure you that you can rest easy on that score because according to my records we still have a considerable majority at your property, in fact a larger majority than when the vote was held.

"On reading over the contract and Mr. Schiffner's letter to me, which was mutually agreed upon, I find that the contract is still in effect, and although you say you are not in a position to enter into collective bargaining with this organization, actually there is a working agreement between your company and this organization which does not expire until August 1, 1939, and not then unless one of the parties involved so wish it.

"Mr. Schiffner has always been willing to abide by the Wagner Act and the decisions of the National Labor Relations Board and I am sure that you will not want to change the past amicable policy of the company and run afoul of the federal government, which you are sure to do if the coecrion which is taking place at your property at the present time is not stopped at once.

"Hoping you will give this every consideration and that your apparent mis-understanding of our relationship at the present time is now cleared up, I am sincerely,"

(Signed) R. J. HARRIS,
Financial Secretary.

Life Triumphant

Some two years ago, Robert Whitaker of Los Gatos, poet, author and nationally-famed lecturer, believed that he was dying. With his wife, Claire Whitaker, he had led a full life. They had tasted of the bitter as well as the sweet. But they had taken time to live—and life was still good.

Deeply moved, but grateful for the years that had gone—and sure of the promise in the years to come for his wife—he wrote the bit of verse which follows, "It will help Claire!" Robert Whitaker fooled the doctors; he still lives; he still writes and lives in a house by the side of the road, watching the race of men go by. But the poem he wrote, under the spell of death, had that "something" which gained attention. Millions of copies have been distributed. And last week, a woman said to Robert Whitaker: "When my husband passed away, I was determined to take my life. There seemed no reason for living. I had made my plans, I was ready to die . . . when I read your bit of verse. I am still living . . . your verse is the reason!"

Because it is more than poetry; because it is the finest kind of philosophy; because it is made of hope and courage, we re-print Robert Whitaker's words for our readers:

O promise me, that when the twilight falls
When I have passed beyond the sunset walls,
If I shall first explore the mystic way,
You will not let your feet forget to play:
You will not dwell the less with birds and flowers,
Nor miss the warmth and cheer of friendly hours:
O promise me the gift of more than tears,
That you will live the fulness of your years;
O promise me.

O promise me that you will live the more
The hopes and loves that you have lived before;
That as the tendrils of affection climb,
And lift above the trellises of time,
You will not count the less the common way,
You will not live the less from day to day;
O promise me, whatever waits above,
You will be faithful here to life and love;
O promise me. Robert Whitaker.

Three Boys In A Church

Their faces browned by the lash of wind and sun, three boys sat quietly in a Santa Cruz church last Sunday. They sat in church because a court had ordered it. They sat quietly because their freedom depended on it.

The judge who ordered those three boys to church faced no easy task. Gay, impetuous, with a youthful lust for adventure, they sailed off to seek their fortunes in the South Seas. Cautiously planned and carefully executed, their adventure probably seemed no less "right" to them because it involved a yacht that happened not to be their own. Like thousands of adventurers before them, they had sought to follow their star—and all else seemed unimportant.

But the day came when their voyage was behind them, when they faced the stern edicts of law and order. What was their punishment to be? Should they be jailed? The judge decided not. Should they be set free? Again, the judge decided not, for he recognized in the youngsters, for all their youthful bravery, a lack of discernment between right and wrong.

And so he ordered church and a study of the ten commandments. Whether that course is as wise as a harsher sentence already has been questioned by some, but admittedly millions of miscreants have been led aright by it. Perhaps, however, that long voyage to the south already has taught the boys that wrong-doing doesn't pay; that "Thou shalt not steal!" is a commandment worth remembering outside of church as well as in—even for impetuous, young adventurers.—Contributed.

SELBY FLAT NOTES

Lawrence Rickard and W. Whitmore have been selling properties near Lake Vera recently.

Albert Wearner and John L. Holder of Angivin, Calif, spent the week end with friends near Grass Valley and Nevada City, among their hosts were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dimond of Selby Flat.

Eugene Rickard recently met a snarling, spitting, female wild cat with kittens in the woods near his home after dark. The animal was far from friendly. The next day he was picking up an armful of wood and almost included in it, a rattlesnake, sound asleep under the pile. He has killed four rattlers this season.

Camp Fire girls on Lake Vera killed a large rattlesnake recently. William Graham killed one in his garage and Eldon Williams destroyed two rattlers sweethearts in his front yard.

William Graham took a truck load of cattle to Stockton Tuesday.

The Sacramento Camp Fire Girls leave Camp Minaluta this week end for their homes. The Reno Camp Fire Girls leave Camp Celio for their homes next Sunday.

SHANGHAI TRADE HITS LOW LEVEL

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Shanghai's future as the industrial and trade center of China seems dead, says Norman Hanwell of the American Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations, writing in the Far Eastern Survey. He adds that present restrictions on reconstruction work by Chinese and foreign interests other than Japanese are almost insurmountable.

In Shanghai itself, there has been from 70 per cent to 100 per cent destruction of Chinese industrial establishments, it is estimated. No industry has been immune from losses. By the beginning of May only 1,861 factories out of 3,801 in the International Settlement were operating.

Foreign property though suffering considerably has lost chiefly through dislocation of trade. Restrictions on the free movement of labor, the housing of operatives, closing of premises, and indiscriminate billeting of troops, are among the important hindrances. In addition to losses suffered by destruction are those incurred by Japanese removal of iron and steel from occupied areas. Not only scrap but actual machinery is being taken from Chinese factories. Looting and destruction in warehouses and other private properties has cost millions of dollars.

Although in the first four months of 1937 Shanghai accounted for 57 per cent of the total trade of China, this year only 23 per cent of this trade has continued. Stoppage of freight from the interior as well as abroad has brought large losses. Chinese shipping companies have lost 475 ships with a tonnage total of 570,000 tons either by Japanese seizure or sinking by the Chinese in building river defenses.

"The immediate prospects of Shanghai depend on the political and economic policies of the Japanese interests now predominant." says Mr. Hanwell. However, marked differences are evident in Japanese opinion, with one side favoring cooperation of foreign capital in exploiting China, and the other advocating a Chine-for-Papan policy. With cessation of Chinese competition, and establishment of puppet regimes in North and Central China, the Japanese are locating mills in the interior, and rapidly expanding cotton production. A plan of controlled "cooperation" is being carried out by the Japanese, in which the Chinese factory owners furnish capital and plant, with Japanese demanding a controlling 51 per cent of the profits. Plans are being made for converting Chinese industrial undertakings to Japanese management or operating them under joint Sino-Japanese control.

"Extensive plans are being made for taking over shipping in the Yangtze area, and for developing the Chinese raw silk industry. The growth of the Central China Development Company, under a bill passed by the Japanese Diet, may result in the creation of large scale monopolies, and, says Mr. Hanwell, "deliver a death blow to non-Japanese enterprises in these fields." It is still not clear as to whether opportunities may be open for foreign and Chinese interests to participate in financing. Efforts to link the yen with the Chinese dollar although not yet successful, would result in great advantage to Japanese business at the expense of non-Japanese foreign interests. Transit taxes on 40 classes of commodities entering and leaving the foreign-controlled areas in Shanghai, act as a protective barrier for the Japanese "cooperative" enterprises outside thos area. If extended they would increase enormously the problems of foreign trade.

The immediate future of Shanghai industry is black so long as she is cut off from the resources and markets of the interior. The trade future of a Shanghai controlled by Japan is equally gloomy. Boycott of Shanghai by Chinese would provide the death blow. Further, the improvement of transportation facilities in the interior under the pressure of war cannot help but direct much trade elsewhere, some of which Shanghai will not regain.

Repressive activities, intentionally or otherwise, are resulting in the gradual strangulation of the city. Mr. Hanwell concludes that, "The combination of all inclusive monopolies, the controlled 'Sino-Japanese co-operatives' enterprises, the tariff and currency manipulation and the inspired transit taxes, together with the lost purchasing power of a nationalistic China bent on reestablishing control over her own economy, bodes ill for the future of Shanghai, in particular for foreign investors."

STUDENTS HONOR TEACHER

CAMPTONVILLE, Aug. 3.—The students of the local branch of the Marysville union high school gave the teacher, Miss Lesta Joubert a surprise birthday party last Thursday. The affair took place at the school house and the students presented her with a suitable present and a fitting card, the card even bearing the foot print of "Pepper" the school mascot.

Refreshments of cake, watermelon, and punch were enjoyed and the affair was a memorable one, appreciated by Miss Joubert. The following were in attendance: Misses Dolores Ann Bishop, Carmen Cassano, Thelma Butz, Harriet Merrill, Barbara Ramm, Barbara Hessler, Carl Chatfield, David Church, Edward Lang, Walter Butz and Leland Pauly, and Miss Lesta Joubert.

PAUL ULLRICH FINDS MERRIAM LEADS IN NEV. CO.

The conservative farmers and miners in Nevada county will give Governor Merriam a substantial majority in this area, Paul G. Ullrich, well known orchardist of Chicago Park, reported on a visit to the Merriam campaign headquarters in San Francisco.

Ullrich said:

"Supporters of Governor Merriam in our county base their prediction following a questionnaire sent to 3000 voters in Nevada county. I have just traveled more than 400 miles in this section and the expressions as to the candidates favored bore out the answers to our mail querry.

"Farm workers and miners opposed to Merriam are the 'floater' type who spend their time denouncing any good conservative leader in our country, but are generally shiftless group who remain only a short time in a locality and then wander to new fields."

ALFRED HADDY SEEKS JUSTICE OF PEACE OFFICE

Alfred H. Haddy of Park avenue has filed his nominating petition to run for justice of the peace for Nevada township. He has lived in this district 22 years and needs no introduction to the voters as he is one of the well known residents of the community. He owns property on Park and Silva avenues in this city.

Before coming to Nevada City he was mayor of the city of Ahmeek, Michigan, for several years, leaving that city to come here when still a mayor of the eastern city. He has always taken a keen interest in civic affairs of his community. Mr. Haddy suffered a sick spell this spring and went to his old home in Michigan for a few weeks stay in the interest of his health. He is practically recovered from the illness.He will return to this city in time for the primaries but will not have time to make an active campaign for the office. If elected Mr. Haddy promises to serve to the best of his ability in a fearless straight forward manner.

NEW HOME BUILDING ON LOWER G. V. ROAD

Mr. and Mrs. W. McCarrie, who reside in the Fouyer house at the foot of Boulder street have purchased an acre and a half on the lower Grass Valley road, just beyond the Benjamin Hall house, for a home. A small two room building will be built first to live in temporarily and later a nice home will be built. Excavations are being made for the basement. Mr. and Mrs. McCarrie have lived in this district about three years. They have as a house guest their daughter, Mrs. Ross.

COL. THEODORE ROOSEVELT WILL AID BANCROFT

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, illustrious son of a distinguished father, has offered to take an active part in helping the campaign of Philip Bancroft, for the Republican nomination for United States senator from California, to supplant incumbent William Gibbs McAdoo. In a telegram to Mr. Bancroft, Col. Roosevelt wired:

"NEWS HAS REACHED ME THAT YOU ARE GOING OUT FOR THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATION FOR THE U. S. SENATE. IS THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO TO HELP YOU? IF SO, COUNT ON ME. I AM IN YOUR CORNER FROM HELL TO BREAKFAST."

Similar offers of support and active assistance from other noted men and women throughout the state and nation were reported at Bancroft senatorial campaign headquarters in Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco and Walnut Creek.

In an address last night, candidate Bancroft said, in part:

"I particularly want to thank the women of the state, all the way from Siskiyou to San Diego, for the amazing backing they are giving me in this senatorial contest. The only reason I can suggest for their enthusiasm is that they have apparently become good and tired of the bunk that has been handed out to them for years by the old line politicians of both parties, and that they are willing to go to the bat for a candidate who says exactly what he means and will do exactly what he says—and whenever the aroused women of this state go to the bat for anyone, I'll tell the world it's tough on the opposition."

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder how ghost writers write,
The speeches speakers speak,
The long vitrolic diatribes,
The "short talks" trite and meek;
Of course stock phrases may be used
By those adeptly able,
And platitudes may lead the way,
To fairy tale and fable.

I wonder at the lack of originality which marks the seasonal crops of campaign speeches; of course there are exceptions, but as a a usual thing they are, "the same, yesterday, today and forever." In them we find familiar assurances, beginning, "if you elect me," etc., vivid denunciations of rival candidates, exposures of "nefarious practices," discoveries of, "dark pools of iniquity," which, "cry aloud to high heaven," while at the same time emitting "most ancient and fish like smells;" there are the old stock phrases concerning the constitution, the flag and the rights of the common man, and platitudes galore, expressive of sweetness and light, calculated, so the candidate believes, to capture the feminine vote.

Continuous blasts of rhetorical spell binding assail the pre-election ear; certainly there are many germs of great ideas, but all too often they are obliterated by pyrotechnical displays. The truth seeking voter must keep the light of reason burning, and remember that vituperation, scandal, name calling and mud slinging do not constitute convincing arguments for or against individuals, measures or policies.

I wonder at the superb sense of direction possessed by many friends and acquaintances: "mother," exclaimed the little daughter of a recent caller, "mother, what direction is heaven from here?" Without an instant's hesitation, that amazingly well informed woman pointed a rigid fore-finger at the exact center of the living room ceiling. She might have said, "heaven is all around you dear—in the bright sunlight, in bird songs, in the perfume of lovely flowers; run out and enjoy it, while, you yourself are so delightful a part of its beauty and perfection." Perhaps it's as well that she didn't; words were conserved, and the child seemed perfectly satisfied; but I shall always regard a certain section of the ceiling with a degree of awed expectancy.

I wonder if you were ever adopted by a dog; we have been and the experience is rather a pleasant one. He—the dog, came to us in the night, from the heavens above, for all we know, carried no credentials, didn't seem to know where he was, and demonstrated friendliness, so—we named him Corrigan. Not very good for calling purposes, but with that name he'll come without calling.

Uncle Silas says: "I hear that Mussolini is copy catting Hitler's racial purity campaign; well, that reminds me of the old saying, "monkey see, monkey do."

WHY NOT EMPLOY A TRAINED CORONER?

A presumption, apart from evidence, may be often determined in certain cases by the fact that a very large number of deaths is caused by accident during occupation or while bathing or boating, or of set purpose, as in suicide. It must not be forgotten that a body may be thrown into the water to cloak the commission of crime in another form. Presumption is of no value whatever when an examination of the body will indicate proof. The question often arises: Was the person dead or alive before the body was submerged in the water? Only a Doctor who is trained and qualified can determine this question.

There are in addition certain medico-legal forms of death from causes which usually form the subject of criminal investigation. Among these are the following: Death by drowning, by suffocation, by hanging, strangulation, and throttling, by lightning and electricity, by burning and scalding, by criminal neglect and starvation, by cold and exposure, by heat apoplexy, and by mortal wounds. Who is better qualified to determine these causes—a Doctor who is Coroner or a layman?

Place the Coroner's Office in the hands of a Professional man where it rightfully belongs. Your support will be appreciated.

FOREST SERVICE MEN, CCC BOYS FIRE FIGHTING

A fire flared up on Juniper Flat about six miles east of Truckee Wednesday evening. Ranger H. I. Snyder of Truckee called 59 CCC boys from the Boca Reclamatioo Camp and it was extinguished after it had burned over about six acres.

The Tahoe National Forest took charge of a state fire which burned across the South Ypba river, near the state highway bridge, Wednesday while State Ranger William F. Sharp and crew were fighting a stubborn fire in the Bear river area south of Grass Valley. Leo Chatfield of Camptonville was sent down to take charge of the fire and CCC boys were rushed from the stub camp at Downieville and another group was sent in from the Tahoe Ukiah CCC camp at White Cloud. It was under control yesterday morning. James Sowder, Jr., was sent out from Tahoe National headquarters at Nevada City yesterday morning to keep a crew patrolling the fire lines and relieve Chatfield. It was roughly estimated that about 500 acres were burned over before the fire was brought under control. Fire spread over Montezuma Hill rapidly Wednesday huge clouds of smoke were quite noticeable from Nevad City and caused much interest for a time.

The boys on the Montezuma Hill fire are watching old burned snags from a fire that occurred years ago and mopping up little blazes here and there. The fire started near the road and it is surmised a cigaret caused the blaze.

A short wave battery radio was carried on the fire lines at the South Yuba and reported the progress from time to time yesterday morning to the local headquarters of Tahoe National forest in Nevada City.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cartwright of Grass Valley called on Mrs. Cartwright's uncle, George Richards, in Nevada City Wednesday, just before they departed for a vacation. It will take them to Yellowstone National Park and on through the Cascade Range into southern Oregon where a short stay will be made to visit relatives of Mr. Cartwright.

TRUCKEE C. I. O. CHIEF THROWS 20 MEN OUT OF JOB

In another successful attempt to throw men out of work, the CIO organization of Truckee has temporarily stopped the work of wrecking the Hobart Mills buildings. Under "Red" Adams, who once rushed strong armed assistance to "brother" CIOs in Nevada City, 150 Truckee members of the organization motored out to Hobart Mills Tuesday and halted the work of dismantling the plant and buildings there.

Sometime since the Hobart Mills Estate company sold the buildings at Hobart Mills, following their abandonment of cutting and lumbering in that section, to the Los Angeles Steel and Iron company. Jos. Lansdberg of Landsberg Bros., wreckers, of Los Angeles was placed in charge of the work.

"Red" Adams demanded that the wages of the 20 men employed at Hobart Mills be advanced to $5 per day, or on Monday he would throw a picket line around Landsberg's headquarters. Over the long distance telephone yesterday Landsberg told the Nevada Citq Nugget that he had decided to suspend operations for the present. He will pay off the 20 men tomorrow night. He stated that he expects to get the work done by individual contract, an agreed price for each building. The question of wages will not then arise.

STUDENTS VISIT MINES

A group of State Mines college students from New Jersey led by instructors, Harley Milstrod and Edgar Bye, stopped over in Grass Valley yesterday to visit mines in the district. They went to the Idaho-Maryland and Empire-Star mines. The visit to Grass Valley was arranged through the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce, Next year the students will take a special course on Grass Valley-Nevada City mines. Upon their return they will visit famous mines in South Dakota.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Bolton, of Bolton's Variety Store, returned on Wednesday evening from San Francisco, where they attended market week.

TRANSAMERICA STOCKHOLDERS GET 4 MILLIONS

John M. Grant, president of Transamerica Corporation, made announcement today of the distribution of approximately $4,200,000 in dividends to stockholders.

Checks representing the regular semi-annual dividend of 37 1-2 cents a share to holders of record at the close of business July 15, have been sent to some 200,000 individual stock holders.

"This should be good news to all varieties of business," commented Grant. "The flow of such a large sum of money into channels of trade should have a stimulating effect."

DEPRESSION IS POLITICAL AND NOT FINANCIAL

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

The current depression is industrial and political—not financial!

It is a direct result, at least in large part of unfortunate attempts by government to plan for industry, instead of with it.

In those economic fields in which government has acted in a cooperative spirit, the force of depression is less marked.

And it is no coincidence that the field of industry hardest hit by the new depression is the field where government has failed to live up to its own specifications.

Highlighted, such are the views of Prof. Raymond Moley, former No. 1 New Deal adviser, as expressed in a recent address before the San Francisco Commonwealth club.

Coming from Prof. Moley, who charted many of the Roosevelt policies during the critical period just after the president first assumed office, this frank diagnosis of "what ails America," is of more than passing significance.

Recognized as one of the nation's foremost progressives, Prof. Moley bluntly predicted the "discrediting of all progressive efforts for years to come" unless progressives stop resorting to reactionary and undemocratic methods to achieve their ends.

"In the field of manufacturing industries and in public utilities, the government sought to force rather than to persuade," said the noted economist and editor.

"It sought to plan for industry, not with it. The Holding Company 'death-sentence' was planning for. The destructive policies into which the TVA plunged was planning for. The surplus tax was planning for. All these coercive policies encountered opposition, and when this opposition became serious, the inevitable happened. The administrative undertook to compel acquiescence in its policies by an impairment of the democratic process. What had been an economic crisis now became a political crisis—a crisis which, in my judgment, still confronts us."

Turning his guns on class warfare and condemning so-called liberals for deliberately pitting class against class, Prof. Moley continued:

"Mingled with their belief that bigness is badness, is a belief in the theory of the class struggle—in a world in which the rule of tooth and claw prevails, a world in which labor inevitably, permanently, pitted against management, agriculture against banking and industry, the consumer against the investor.

"Future students may derive a certain cold academic satisfaction from pointing to the paradox here—the advocacy by progsessives of a reactionary theory of economics. But those of us who are alive today cannot help but regret deeply the tragic results of the impoverishment of the nation brought about through lessened production and increasing unemployment."

Supporters of New Deal policies, undoubtedly, will contend that Prof. Moley is embittered against the administration of which he was formerly a spectacular leader. And there may be some merit in the contention. California farmers are of all parties and all political beliefs—and the Agricultural Council of California, is strictly non-partisan. It holds no brief for Prof. Moley, nor for the administration.

But agriculture has a vital interest in the causes of depression; it has a vital interest in ending senseless class warefare and in aiding in a return to sound values. And California farmers, by and large, have an intense belief in democratic processes—in self determination and in the old fashioned theory that government is the servant of the people, not the master.

In all branches of government—national, state and local—there has been an increasing tendency, perhaps due to emergency conditions of the depression, to reach out for dictatorial powers and to plan for, instead of with. That tendency is one that needs correction, if agricluture and business and industry are to achieve any measure of recovery. American agriculture found its place in the sun by private initiative; America's transportation facilities were developed by private initiative! American homes were lighted and farms supplied with power—by private initiative. America came to greatness—by private initiative. And most Americans still believe in it!

Mrs. Richard Phelan came up from Sacramento Wednesday enroute to her mine Sacred Mount and Butte Saddle at Sierra City where she will spend several days.

STATE UTILITIES VALUATION FIXED AT $990,403,660

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—A valuation of $990,403,660 was placed on public utility property throughout California in a report submitted to the State Board of Equalization today by A. G. Mott, director of the board's valuation division.

While the value of tangible property represents a slight increase over the total assessment roll of the previous year, the roll to be submitted to counties for assessment purposes shows a reduction inasmuch as $11,668,530, representing the value of the rolling stock of private car companies and previously included in the local rolls, now is subject to state taxes only under the private car tax act of 1937.

As a result of this change, it was explained, the value of tangible public utility property subject to local taxation was placed at $939,104,700 as compared with $948,651,280 for 1937. The intangible property was listed at $39,630,430 as compared with $55,094,920 the previous year.

In Nevada county the 1937 utility values were tangible property, $7,949,150, as compared with 1938 tangible property, $7,648,940. There is no intangible property.

In presenting the report to the board, Mott said:

"Although there have been various transfers and consolidations they have not resulted in any outstanding change in the quantity of property assessed. The year has been marked however, by two important changes of another nature:

"1—The somewhat drastic reduction in values that are found to obtain in the trunk line railroads and telegraph companies due to the effect of the present business recession and in part to other causes.

"2—The development of a very large oil field in the Wilmington district in which the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad Company has a very large holding. This development has resulted in an increase in assessed value in property in that area assessed by the board of nearly $10,000,000.

"The major portion of the increase found in gas, electric and telephone companies is due to new construction.

"As a net result of all of these changes, the total value of tangible property assessed by the board has increased $2,121,950."

In keeping with the new law providing for state taxation of "private cars," the board set a tax rate of $3.60 per $100 valuation of this type of utility property.

Board members pointed out that taxpayers have until August 15 in which to petition for reassessment after which the assessment roll will be adopted in its final form.

The classification by groups of taxpayers included the following:

Class of property	1937	1938
Gas and Electric companies—	$537,629,710	$536,191,160
Telephone and Telegraph—	159,273,200	166,139,440
Pipe Line Companies—	24,860,950	24,773,300
Railroad Companies—
Car companies(property subject to local taxes)—	269,364,450	248,582,470
